FATAL ACCIDENT.—While the Reno passenger train was coming this way Thursday, and was doing some switching at Colfax, Barney Daugherty, one of the brakemen, was caught between two of the coaches and his head badly crushed. Before the train could be stopped the cars passed over and cut off one of his legs. The injured man was taken to Sacramento where he died shortly after arriving. Deceased was well and favorably known all along the road, having worked for the company a long time, being a brakeman on the old fighting train when Dave Willard was conductor.

THOMAS FREEHILL DEAD.

Another of the Old Timers Passes Away into Eternal Quietude.

Of the death of Thomas Freehill, the capitalist, who owned a good deal of real estate in Reno, the Enterprise, of yesterday, says:

Thomas Freehill, whom all have known so intimately and well from the earliest history of the Comstock, and well known also in San Francisco and elsewhere in California, died last evening at his room in the Dunlop House about 8:30 o'clock. Deceased was a native of County Carrau, Ireland, aged sixty-six years, unmarried, and the only relative he leaves in this city is Frank Golden, his nephew.

He was familiarly known as Tommy Freehill, a genial hearted, good square citizen and capitalist. At an early age he left the old country and went to the West India Islands, where he became associate owner and manager of a big sugar plantation. In 1851 he came to California across the salt water and, after studying the chances, he invested what money he had in the purchase of real estate. He soon went to Downieville, where he established himself and was engaged for some years in mining and mining operations. He was very successful in that and everything else he undertook. Downieville was at this time generally known as the Forks of the Yuba. A bridge was established across the river at that point, which he became possessor of by purchase, and it proved to be a highly remunerative piece of property. He also dealt considerably in mining properties, and when he sold out in 1862 he came to the Comstock with a large amount of coin. He made some judicious real estate investments, dealt more or less in mining properties, but always bragged that he never owned a single share in mining stocks of any description. In 1869 he joined in the White Pine excitement and went out to Hamilton, where he built the toll road through the canyon below the town, and came back winner to the Comstock.

Deceased leaves, besides his nephew, Frank Golden, in this city, a sister in San Francisco, a niece in Healdsburg, California. It seems almost like a singular coincidence that the husband of this sister, Lewis Byington, died in San Francisco, day before yesterday. Mr. Byington was a prominent man in that section and ex-State Senator. Freehill leaves a large amount of real estate in this city, as well as in San Francisco, in Fresno and other parts of the country, also money in bank and United States bonds, his entire estate being estimated at over $500,000. He was a member of the Masonic Order in this city, and they will doubtless take charge of his funeral. Although strictly a business man, he was always hard-headed, but was accommodating and lenient to creditors and generous and charitable where he deemed proper or necessary, and many poor people who are constantly assisted will be sorry to learn that Tommy Freehill is no more.

MARRIED.—In Spanish Spring Valley, July 2d, 1886, at the residence of the bride's mother—Walter L. Wallace and Jennie A. Hill were united in the holy bonds of matrimony, by Rev. Wm. Lucas. Mr. Wallace was formerly of Wadsworth, but has resided in Reno for the last year. He is a brother of J. N. Wallace, of Reno. The bride has lived in Reno since her childhood, and is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Hill. The home of the bride was tastefully decorated with flowers; the gift of her grandmother of Oakland, Cal. Mr. C. D. Hill, brother of the bride, acted as best man, and Miss Hettie Coats as bridesmaid. The bride was tastefully dressed in ecru-colored serge, and brocade velvet with trimmings of Oriental lace, and natural flowers, her only ornaments. The bridesmaid was dressed in white nun's-veiling, trimmed with Oriental lace. The ceremony was private, only a few of the most intimate friends and relatives being invited. The guests took their departure at a late hour, all wishing Mr. and Mrs. Wallace a long life of continued happiness. The following were among the list of presents: Fine damask tablecloth and napkins, from the bride's mother; set of silver table-knives, from the bride's father; Mr. and Mrs. Mason, of Oakland, silver table castor; Mrs. Hugh Bankhead, of Oakland, Japanese glove-box; Mrs. Moskiman, of Oakland, cake stand; Mrs. Mason, of Oakland, a nice set of majolica ware. Mrs. Malcombe Bankhead, of Oakland, pair of Mikado wall-pockets; Mr. Joyce, of Oakland, counterpane; Mrs. G. L. Gibson, half-dozen Japanese individual butter plates; Mr. G. L. Gibson, silver thimble; Mrs. Bell, damask dinner napkins and lambrequin; Mrs. Ella Chamberlain, fancy toothpick holder; Mrs. Bankhead, damask tablecloth; Mrs. Atkinson, darning bag;

Mrs. Klatzel, hand-made lace skirt; Eugene and Miss Melissa Blardell, silver water-pitcher; Mrs. John Dixon, amber glass berry set; Mr. D. Powell, silver card-receiver; Mrs. Pollock, silver pickle-caster; Mr. Pinniger, plush and celluloid toilet set; Miss Hettie Coats, cottage clock; Mrs. Lee, damask tablecloth; Mrs. Maltby, tinted glass set; Mrs. D. F. Sheldon, damask table napkins.

CHARLIE REED'S MINSTRELS.—Charlie Reed's Minstrel and Comedy Company gave a good performance at the Theater last evening. The minstrel business was nothing remarkable, but the specialties were decidedly clever—especially Reilly's lightning sketches and Millis' ventriloquial exhibition. Shirley's performance on many instruments was also appreciated by the large audience. Charlie Reed, of course, was the life of the evening.

Strikes on the Comstock seem to be in order. First it was the Savage, now the Chollar steps to the front, and the Virginia experts say Hale & Norcross is liable to run against an ore deposit on the 3,200 level. We are liable to see bright days on the Comstock yet.
